Carpenter Clarifies Issue Concerning UK Athletes, Tests

Zoology Head Calls Student Charge False In Kernel Interview

A denial that sample tests were given to UK athletes in a zoology course this semester was made early this week by Dr. John M. Carpenter, head of the Department of Zoology.

In an interview, Dr. Carpenter Dr. Carpenter also said that said that a story appearing in the favoritism, as far as football players April 9, 1954, issue of the Kernel are concerned, is nonexistent in was "untrue." When asked if an annual physical examination of all UK students would have indicated the presence of tuberculosis before it reached advance stages, Infirmary authorities pointed out that the acute TB attack could develop suddenly or over longer period of time.

At present, students are required to undergo a thorough physical check-up only upon entering the University for the first time. Many colleges and universities require this examination as a part of regul r registration every year for all su-

Pre-Derby Shows Need Balance, Ticket Prices Should Be Lowered

By LESLIE MORRIS

Next week the Commonwealth will play host to thousands of tourists who will settle in and around the environs of Churchill Downs' for the big Runfor the Roses. In the days before the most thrilling two minutes in all sportsdom, Falls City businessmen and landlords will attempt to beat the track in taking the visitors for everything they've got.

Last year, the biggest little city in the U.S. and home of of UK decided to muscle in with two big pre-Derby shows, starring Judy Garland and Bon Hope, designed to hire a goodly number of racing fans to hospitable Lexington until Derby Day. How many folks actually got tired of the Louisville holdup and furnitureless hotel lobbies and headed this way, we guess)-Imt the local Chamber of Commerce and Levington merchants certainly weren't hurt by the all-star show.

We read that Cliff Hagan is soon to be tested by Meriwether and the incomparable Charlie O'Connell, announced that Tony Martin and Mr. Hope for the role of Tarzan, the fellow who swings again, had been signed for shows on Tuesday and through trees and talks with apes. We wonder if Thursday nights of next week on the concert stage his experience with the NCAA could have influ- of the Coliseum. So since it appears that the shows will become a regular holiday treat, we'd like to aller a little masked-for, but sincere advice to whom it may concern, because the programs last

We also wish that the local promotion gang would make some provisions to take care of the pennyless UK denizens. The tab for the tickets is a trille phenomenal, and the lower-priced ducats require opera-glasses. At any rate, this idea of selfing the tickets on a two-night basis is not exactly designed to aid the struggling scholar who's starying for a night out. Last year, as we gazed at the empty stands at the Carland show, we had the feeling that an easier solution would be to lower prices-for we fear that the no-two, no-go standard (which we have a bunch may be lifted at the last minute) isn't the way to go about it, but who

Meanwhile, the movies and CinemaScope go with Doris Day. Robert Commings and Phil Silvers, and it's a right gool movie. D-Day sings nothing much in particular in her usual fine style, and Commings, who has t been around much lately, is excellent, as is formy-man Silvers, straight from his "Top Banana" lut.

Commings and Silvers make for an interesting study in contrasts. Both draw guffaws Cummings by his quiet underplay to of the mixed-up middleaged kid, and Silvers by his patented back-slapping, loud-month brand of humor. Anyway, it's a nice little cinemusical.

As for "Prince Valight a rowdier lairy tale we have never seen. A good time was had by all, and even though the older people in the audience and act as MC or he around for the rest of the: laughed in the wrong places, the kiddies had a ball. The acting, however, was horrible-James Mason appeared too ashamed of his part in the proceedings to act well, and poor Sterling Hayden seemed completely bewild roll by the comie-strip doings. Janet Leigh looked delectable. Debra Paget was wasted-but Bob Wagner came through all right, and that's what Zamick had in mind, anyway. . . .

Slucks, babe, WE don't think you look yeary

In France, there is a village called Septen'l. The village is noted for three things, its church ats varter tower and my lather.

Of these three my father is the no t often discussed feature of the village. And so it is that this column comes to be dedicated to my father, without whom this column wouldn't be here in the first place.

Father is a big man with a patch of blonde-brown hair and two blue eyes. He is by nature a quiet man, except when he falls down the rickety sairs of the old house he lives in. To some, this may sound I may, but my father's falling down the stairs is a hig event in a peaceful country village.

You see, no one knows why Father falls down the stairs. This adds a touch of mystery to the atfair-and people love mysteries

Whenever Father lalls down the stairs the villagers begin to talk. Why, they esk, has he fallen down the stairs? There are several interesting reasons which might

First, there are the two dogs and the cat. One dog, Albis, is a lovely two-ton Boxer "pip the other, a mentally retarded Cocker Spaniel answers to the name of Henri, which we understand is French for Onerv.

The cat, May, is just a cat, a la tom. At I this is where the stair falling enters the picture.

When Albis, Henri, and Max decide to settle the matter of who ate whose food, there is a big scramble. Some people think that this is the reason my father falls down the stairs-either because be is tangled up in Henri, Max, and Albis or because he bas stolen the food himself

Then, there is the whispered suggestion that my father falls down the stairs because he won't fix them. This is not true. My lather regards the house as having "charm" because it is old. Because the house is old and has charm, Father will not fix the stairs. Maybe that is one reason why be falls down

There is also the rinnor among the good people of Septenil that my father falls down the stars because he is pushed down. Of course it is true that my father's wife is a beautiful little lady who will stand for no nonsense.

This is bad, everyone agrees, because occasionally my father does things she considers nonsense. At least, that's what the villagers say. It probably isn't true, because even my father isn't nonscusical enough to get pushed down the stairs

A lot has been said about the lact that my lather does fall down the stairs but nothing has been said as to how he falls down. My fath r falls down stairs in a manner all his own. But then he has his way of doing everything and this includes fall ing down the stairs.

When he fidls, it is not with a simple thomp. thump, thump, bump. It could not be a simple thump, thump, thump, bump, because the stairs inv Lither fall, not WIND down the stairs

Some people think he falls down just because he likes the idea of winding down, not talling down stairs. This is not likely, because I have heard my Lather Fall, not WIND down the stairs.

Not only does he fall with uit the thinup, but be also falls without the usual bump. My father is talented in that respect. No one is quite sure how he does it, but his falling is quite diff rent from the way most people would fall.

Perhaps the words he says when he winds up (or falls down) at the bottom of the steps make the event so minisual. Some of the words sound like groans, and some of them sound like French but most of them sound like the kind of words you'd expect after a man lell down a llight of stairs

Altogether, it is quite a wonderful experience to hear my lather fall down the stairs. First there is the loud OOPS, followed by sounds no one can quite understand. One suspicions villager once rumored that my father doesn't really fall but lets himself down, but, like some of the other thing

If anyone honestly falls down stairs at is a

It is also quite an experience to see and talk t my father after he has fallen down the stairs. A first, von think he is grown ng for help. Then, von think he has broken his back in two or three places. But, this is all illusion.

My father always gets up to fall down again.

Whatever the reasons may be my father his made his reputation by falling down the thirs. He will probably continue to fidl down the stars for Everyone emovs it and hopes be will continue to fall for a long time.

No one can fall down stairs like my father

due to a Kentucky statute which prevents daylight

The Williams-Moorman Anti-Daylight Saving Time Act which was passed by the General Assembly two years ago states; "The standard time fixed and prescribed for the Commonwealth of Kentucky by Act of Congress or by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall apply to and govern all laws, regulations and rules relating to the time of performance of any act by any officer or department of the Commonwealth, or of any county, city, or subdivision or agency, thereof, or relating to the time that any right shall accrue or determine, or within which any act shall or shall not be performed by any person subject to the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth, and in all the public schools and institutions of the Commonwealth and on the public works of the Commonwealth or any county, city or district thereof, or in all contracts made or to be performed in the Commonwealth." According to the above statute Lexington could not have officially passed an ordinance to go on saving time since it would be against the state law. Therefore, the city commissioners recommended to the citizens to adopt the time, which they did. But, since the University is a public school and an institution of the Commonwealth it cannot go on the

What I am concerned about is when will an Dear Editor: This is an open letter to the University of Ken- agreement he binding on a coach? As I understand tucky. It pertains to lootball and the coaching it, a coach is supposed to build character. How situation in general and Paul Bryant's resignation can a man build if he does not exemplify? If the University dismisses a coach, it is expected to pay a native Kentuckian and this is not sour grapes on him the full amount agreed to. I think a coach my part either. I have never seen Mr. Collier and should have equal honor. Of course, if you have lost the loyalty of a man, you do not want him as a coach. I like a winner as well as any one and Bryant made an excellent record in that respect.

However, he has been severely criticized by the sports writers of the Pacafic Coast on several occasions; namely for his conduct following his loss to Santa Clara several years ago, his "dressing down" of the players following the LSU game this year, and for an article he gave to the press during the past year. These writers said that he was trying to put himself in the class of Stagg, Rockne, Lou-Little, Pop Warner, etc.

On the other hand, they are quite complimentary to Mr. Collier and his record and I feel that, in the long run, we are going to be quite happy with the his loyalty to Kentucky and Irom what information—it by "Contemporary." I have been able to secure, I cannot say the same for Mr. Bryant.

There seems to be quite a bit of not so gentle feuding going on pro and con about the concert given here by the New York Philharmonic. A great deal of this centers around a criticism of the concert written by Robert Lee for the Kernel. Last week, in the April 9th issue of the Kernel, I found a Letter To The Editor commenting on the same concert and the criticism by Lee. The letter is signed "Contemporary" (in complete sarcasm), and is evidently written by one of the world's numerous, narrow-minded cranks who actually believes there has been nothing since the classics, and says so.

Mr. "Contemporary" as he so ridiculously labels himsell is not only a menace to true progress but, as his letter shows, he is actually flaunting his musical stupidity. He ollers a program of contemporary music to Mr. Lee. This starts oll with Egard Varese's "Ionization." It is true that this is modern much merit, has been received well in many com-

The current edition of the Globetrotters is a far cry from the collected two of the Kentucky hits one of the top teams in the SEC. Trotters of a few years back. If the game at Cincinnati was any Vanderbilt, considered as one of the indication of their present style of play, it appears that they have afternoon in the seven-inning night blanked Kennucky 9-0 in last year's substituted dirty play for finesse. They were playing without the cap as he allowed nine hits. Day services of Reece "Goose" Tatum in the Cinciunati game, which was tight in the clutch however, The Wildcats will be seeking their might account for some of their rough edges. However, they don't ing three runs during the first three have as much style as they did when they had Marquis Haynes innings, he shut-out the Englineers losses have been to Tennessee and and "Sweetwater" Clifton to go along with "The Goose".

> Lexington will have a professional hasehall team this season a single. Brannon had a triple and for the first time in many years. Ed Ashford, Sports Editor of the two singles for Tech. Herald, is the president of the new class C team. They will open marked improvement over the past got the only extra-base hit for the their Monutain States League home schedule on Sunday. Now if four. The Cats errored only once Cats, a double they could get some former UK players on the team, they might build up quite a bit of interest on the campus. . . . .

It will be "Buckshot" Underwood's lads against Ermal Allen's crew, when the Wildeat gridders hold their annual Blue-White game tomorrow night. Coach Blanton Collier selected these two coaches to coach the two sides in the game, while he watches the overall performance of both teams. The clash will mark the end of spring toothall practice and should be quite a game.

The Blue-White game will give UK fans a chance to see the variations in the Bryant style and the Collier style of play. Actually the style of play will show very few differences from last year, as Bryant had the Cats running from the split-T and Collier is one of the finest split-T coaches in the country. The game will also give UK fans an indication of what to expect of next fall's edition of the Wildeats, which will face perhaps the roughest schedule in this school's history.

A formidable array of teams have been lined up for the second annual UK Invitational Tournament next December. In Utah, Southern California, and LaSalle the Wildcats will certainly have their hands full in keeping the trophy at home.
